LIZ: A LIFE OF COLOUR

“THE STORY OF MY JOURNEY
AND HOW MY DISCOVERIES
CAN CHANGE YOUR LIFE”

Liz Davenport's contemporary autobiography 'A Life of Colour' unravels the mystique surrounding the life of this fashion designer.

It is the story of how Liz Davenport, a girl from a country town in Western Australia created an empire that extended to the pinnacle of the fashion world - Bond Street, London. It chronicles Liz's determination to succeed and set the highest standard in the world of fashion. It also reflects on Liz's journey as a wife, mother, mentor, activist, - all from Perth the most isolated city in the world.

The sheer brilliance behind every unique garment she designs and produces has led to Liz launching 'The Theory of Multiplicity' – the ability to give each garment a multiple of uses and wear it in a number of combinations.

Liz has a genius for perceiving not only what works in contemporary fashion, but also what will last. Her sustainable approach to designing and manufacturing 'wearable' clothes for women has won her many loyal clients, along with a multitude of prestigious awards and accolades.

Liz is a true leader and pioneer in her industry and an inspiration to men and women alike. This book is bound to become a highly sought after source of inspiration and guidance, and indeed a collector's item!
